

Abstract

5

A motor housing for an electric motor having a housing shell which encloses a space to accommodate the electric motor, and a flexible partition in the housing shell which separates a 10 pressure equalizing cavity from the cavity accommodating the electric motor, whereby the pressure equalizing cavity is connected to the outside environment.